

Mobile Sales Performance Analysis

Power BI Dashboard Report

This dashboard-driven report analyzes mobile sales performance using Power BI, providing insights into sales trends, customer demographics, product performance, and regional distribution for strategic business analysis.

Executive Summary

₹769M

Total Sales Revenue

3,835

Transactions

19K

Units Sold

3.69

Average Rating

Out of 5 stars

The analysis demonstrates a robust sales performance, with total revenue of ₹769 million generated from 3,835 transactions, resulting in approximately 19,000 units sold. The average customer rating of 3.69 indicates a satisfactory customer experience with scope for incremental improvement. Consistent performance across revenue, transaction volume, and unit sales reflects stable market demand and effective sales execution. The insights derived from the Power BI dashboard enable data-driven evaluation of business performance, customer behavior, and strategic optimization opportunities.

Brand Performance

Apple

Leading with ₹162M in sales

Samsung

Second-highest contributor

Others

OnePlus, Vivo, Xiaomi show steady performance

Premium brands generate higher revenue whilst mid-range brands drive sales volume.

Monthly Sales Trends

Sales remain stable throughout the year with seasonal peaks in July (₹69.6M) and March (₹69M) indicating promotional impact.

Geographic Performance

Delhi

₹204M – Highest contributor

Mumbai

₹127M – Second highest

Tier-2 Cities

Showing growing sales potential

Top Products

iPhone SE

₹59.6M – Top-selling model

OnePlus Nord

Ranking second in sales

Galaxy Series

Consistent sales performance

The analysis of top products shows that the iPhone SE is the highest-performing model with ₹59.6M in sales, indicating strong customer preference for premium Apple devices. The OnePlus Nord ranks second, reflecting high demand in the mid-premium segment due to its value-for-money positioning. The Galaxy Series demonstrates consistent sales performance across multiple models, contributing steadily throughout the year. Overall, the product performance highlights a balanced market demand for both premium and mid-range smartphones, enabling stable revenue generation and diversified product portfolio strength.

Customer Behaviour – Payment Methods

Digital Payment Shift

UPI is the most preferred method at 26.4%. Debit Card, Credit Card, and Cash show balanced usage.

Customer Behaviour – Ratings & Weekly Pattern

Customer Ratings

Majority of customers rate products 4–5 stars

Indicates high customer satisfaction

Weekly Sales Pattern

Highest sales on Friday and Saturday

Lowest sales during mid-week (Wednesday)

Demographic Analysis

26–35 Years

Primary customer age group

36–45 Years

Key customer segment

18–25 Years

Followed by this segment

The demographic analysis shows that the 26–35 age group is the primary customer segment, driven by young professionals with higher purchasing power. The 18–25 age group follows as an important segment, reflecting early adoption behavior. Customers aged 36–45 contribute steadily through need-based purchases. Overall, young professionals form the core customer base influencing sales performance.

Strategic Recommendations

1

Focus Marketing on Apple & Samsung

High Priority – Target metro cities

2

Increase Promotions in March & July

High Priority – Capitalise on peak sales months

3

Expand UPI Offers & Cashback

Medium Priority – Leverage digital payment preference

4

Target 26–35 Age Group

Medium Priority – Digital campaigns for young professionals

5

Boost Mid-Week Sales

Low Priority – Weekday discounts to increase Wednesday sales

Conclusion :

- Strong sales performance with ₹769M revenue
- Apple leads revenue contribution
- Metro cities drive maximum sales
- Digital payments dominate customer behavior
- Dashboard supports effective data-driven decisions

Key Findings & Business Impact

Strong sales performance driven by Apple, metro cities, and digital payments, supported by actionable insights from Power BI.